THE PENDING QUESTION.

Washington, December 8. - Senator Blaine will call up his investigating resolution to-morrow, and deliver a speech upon the subject. Senator Thurman will speak upon the subject also, but it is understood that Senator Eaton will deliver a straight out opposing speech. Mr. Blaine has intimated his willingness to accept any amendment to his resolution that does not tend to defeat the original object.

PUTTERING POTTERITES. A prominent member of the Potter committee to-night said that it was extremely uncertain whether or not the committee would continue its investigation. Some of the members of the committee were in favor of going on, but others thought to let the whole thing go as it was. CIPHER DISPATCHES.

The cipher dispatches now in the possession of the committee have never been overhauled, and their purport, of course, is unknown, consequently both sides are afraid of them. It is probable that the committee will hold meetings at different intervals from now until the 4th of March, but without transacting any business.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, December 6, 1878. Yesterday in the senate Mr. Edmunds gave notice that on next Monday he would ask the senate to consider a bill in relation to the manner of counting for president, and matters connected therewith. The special committee by which the report is made, which he asks to have discussed, is an exceptionally able one. It is doubtful if final action will be taken on the subject at this session. Senator Stanley Matthews on Tuesday made an excellent speech in favor of the bill in aid of the Texas Pacific Railroad, and on yesterday, thinking, no doubt, that the speech had settled the question. moved to take up the bill for final action. The senate refused to do this, because many other senators desired to be heard as to the merits of the bill. It seems certain that some bill recognizing this road will pass by a large majority. Senator Blaine's resolution instructing the judiciary committee of the senate to inquire whether the rights of voters in the south had been attacked, does not, upon further reflection, give that statesman, or other radical gentlemen, unalloyed satisfaction. It is partizan, and so palpably so, that everybody knows it. Amendments

On Tuesday the house passed two of the appropriation bills-the Fortification bill and the West Point bift. These the senate referred on yesterday to the proper committees, and they will no doubt be finally disposed of at an unprecedentedly early day. Other appropriation bills are ready for the house, and will receive attention at once. The consideration of these will make up the real business of the session, and all of them will be acted upon early. With one house in control of each party, it does not seem good policy to waste time on purely at Lahore states that high officials say the political matters, and the disposition seems real tone is indicated by the remonstrance political moves have been made, but they in regard to the British tampering with do not have the countenance of senators or

Southern Pacific Railroad.

(From the Memphis Appeal.) At the next session of congress the friends of this great enterprise will make the last great effort to secure an appropriation. What the south asks is simply justice. Millions were appropriated for the Union Pacific road, and the south, taxed for the benefit of this road, insists that she be treated with respect and justice. If the friends of this great enterprise will unite, we believe they will succeed. As a rule we are opposed to subsidies, but a grand enterprise of the magnitude of the Southern Pacific-one which would give employment to thou ands up in thousands of men, put in circulation millions of money, and open up a highway through a very paradise of country, and furnish cheap homes to a million of idle mechanics and workmen, we can see no good reason why the government cannot lend the enterprise a hand upon honorable terms when not jeopardiz-ing the treasury one mill in so doing.
